MANTELS.

Marbleized Slate, made in exact imitation of any of the choice Foreign and American Marbles, also of any of the different kinds of Hard-Wood, are susceptible of a finish equal in lustre to a mirror, retain the color and high lustre, are not susceptible to stains from smoke, coal gas, acids, oils, liquors, coloring from brick-work arising from dampness in chimneys, or other causes, and by the combination and harmony of three and four different colors with gilt lines, become not only an article of necessity, but a rich and elegant article of furniture, and are far less expensive than Mantels made from any other material.

We do not speak so highly of Marbleized Slate from any other motive than that we truly believe them to be to the best interest and satisfaction of our customers, as we are manufacturers of Mantels in other materials.

In real Marble we use all the most desirable of Foreign and American Marbles, in pure white or colors.

In real Hard-Wood we make Mantels and Mirror Frames in any of the different kinds of wood, or finished in any veneer.

Few of our designs are given in this Catalogue, as we have nearly three hundred styles set at our store, most of them entirely new in design, in harmony with recent architecture and best styles of drapery.

GRATES.

New designs in Black, Japan, Bronze, Nickel, or Steel, with new ornaments and figures of gilt, nickel or silver, with different kinds of bronze, durable and unique in beauty. Damp Grates, low and half-low, for hard or soft coal and wood; backs of metal, fire brick, or soapstone.

GAS LOGS.

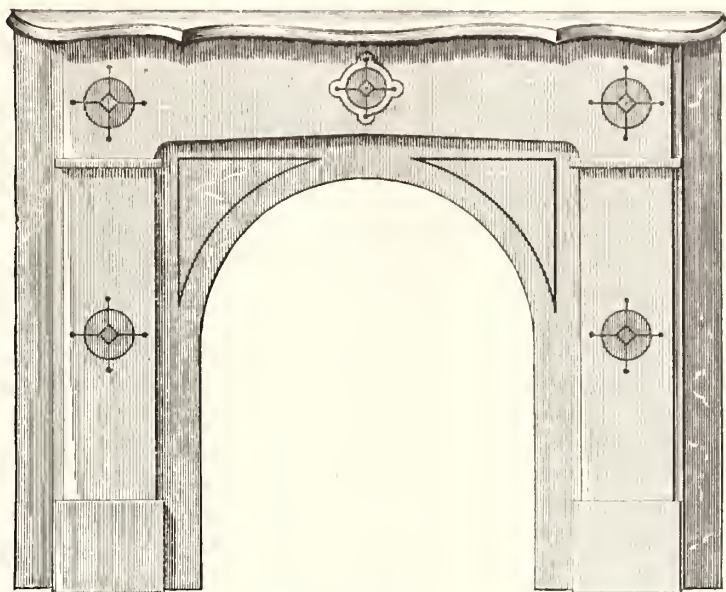

Made to resemble sticks of wood as they naturally appear heaped together in a fire-place or grate, arranged for gas, durable in every respect, as easily governed as an ordinary gas-burner, ever ready by simply turning on the gas and attaching a light, giving a cheerful, pleasing effect, like the blazing fire of real wood, free from dirt, ashes or odors, and a good medium of ventilation. The expense of a gas log when burning is from 6 to 15 cents per hour, according to size of log.
